

Big Ben's Car Care Tips

Long Beach has a rat problem, and rats love cars. The engine block is warm, dark, and protected. There's stuff to chew on. It's like a perfect little fortress for them. Pull off the air filter cover and you'll see. I've seen a lot of rat damage lately and it can be expensive. But there is a solution: lights! Rats hate lights, so get some portable lights and keep your the area around your car lit up for a couple nights. That should scare them off, for a little while, at least.
